

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY

May 4, 2018

Honorable Elizabeth Warren
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Warren:

Thank you for your December 13, 2017, letter to Secretary Betsy DeVos and Chief Operating Officer Dr. A. Wayne Johnson, regarding the U.S. Department of Education's (Department) plans for oversight and enforcement of federal student aid programs. Your letter was forwarded to my office, and I am pleased to respond and am sending identical responses to the cosigners of your letter.

The Department is committed to protecting borrowers and taxpayers, and its Office of Federal Student Aid (FSA) has established a comprehensive approach to the oversight of the federal student aid programs. FSA's oversight strategy ensures organizations affiliated with these programs understand their responsibilities and comply with federal student aid statutes, regulations, and other related consumer protection laws. Our oversight, compliance, and risk management efforts are continually evolving to ensure continuous improvements when needed, constant communications, and proactive responses. The following addresses the questions asked in your letter.

1. Please describe in further detail the Department's plans for "proactive risk management."

FSA's Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) Unit is responsible for providing best in class business strategy service for all internal review, audit resolution, risk assessment, and risk management; portfolio risk management; and performance monitoring in high-risk issue areas. The ERM Unit works to develop proactive risk assessments and provide a more strategic view of future risks, and to better equip senior management to anticipate, analyze, and manage risks inherent in the federal student aid program, including analysis of findings from Office of Inspector General (OIG) and Government Accountability Office (GAO) audits. Evolving into a modernized ERM approach in 2017, FSA's ERM program includes a re-engineered and documented ERM system and a new tiered governance structure which includes executive level, cross business-unit level, and enterprise cyber risk components. Risk management efforts are always ongoing and will be updated based on new strategies and actions as new risks are identified.

2. Please describe the specific changes the Department envisions to its current policies and practices that will shift to "executive outreach" in compliance and enforcement.

The Executive Outreach function is responsible for the development and execution of outreach and engagement efforts with federal and state agencies, professional organizations, higher education executives, and FSA stakeholders. It does not shift current policies and practices from compliance and enforcement but rather augments efforts within these compliance and enforcement units to proactively engage with partners and stakeholders to increase engagement, information-sharing, and collaboration with regard to student aid matters. Engagement efforts and communications will clarify FSA's compliance processes and enforcement actions and facilitate increased interaction among the Department and key student aid groups and entities.

3. When does the Department estimate that all of the elements of its new risk management strategy, including identifying said risk factors, will be completed?

In 2017, as part of a broader effort to increase the Department's level of awareness and preparedness for risk, FSA identified, recruited, and placed key senior leaders and subject matter experts within the Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) Unit. FSA's ERM program includes a re-engineered and documented ERM system and a new tiered governance structure, which includes executive level, cross business-unit level, and enterprise cyber risk components. Risk management efforts are always ongoing and will be updated based on new strategies and actions as new risks are identified.

4. Is the Investigations Group required to obtain approval from any senior political appointee or group of appointees before pursuing basic tasks, such as coordinating with federal agencies, interviewing school officials, or requesting documents from institutions of higher education?

See response to Question 6 below.

5. What enforcement actions have been initiated from investigations conducted by the Student Aid Enforcement Unit since January 20, 2017?

See response to Question 6 below.

6. Is the Investigations Group still receiving cases referred from Program Compliance or Administrative Actions and Appeals Service Group?

FSA has been working to transition the various components responsible for investigating and potentially instituting adverse actions to address more complex alleged violations of the laws and regulations governing federal student aid, including incidents of fraud. The Enforcement Unit includes the Investigations Group, as well as the Administrative Actions and Appeals Group (AAASG).¹ To ensure consistent enforcement as well as sufficient expertise in the Higher Education Act's Title IV requirements, the Enforcement Unit works with experienced Program Compliance staff and attorneys in the Office of the General Counsel (OGC) in investigating cases and processing any resulting adverse actions. The Investigations Group was originally designed in early 2016 as a standalone office for investigations of alleged serious Title IV violations and fraud. Since that time, however, the Department has determined that coordinating the work of the Investigations Group with investigations that have historically been conducted by Program Compliance, AAASG, and OGC would provide more expertise than relying solely on the Investigations Group to separately generate and process investigations. The transition to a more coordinated approach also aims to avoid duplication of work that has all along been performed by Program Compliance, OGC, AAASG (prior to becoming a part of the Enforcement Unit), and OIG.

Cases are generated from a variety of sources, including student complaints, referrals from other government agencies and law enforcement partners, and from program reviews conducted by Program Compliance. The Enforcement Unit, Program Compliance staff, and OGC work together to investigate potential actions thoroughly by coordinating with those other government agencies, interviewing school officials, students and third parties as appropriate and requesting documents from institutions or other entities, including by subpoena where necessary. FSA senior management (along with other senior Department officials, including political appointees) have a general oversight role in allocating resources to prioritize areas for investigation but do not manage the basic functions of the investigations.

The enforcement unit has initiated more than 50 adverse actions since January 20, 2017. These include actions to terminate, suspend, limit, revoke, and deny recertification of participation, as well as levying fines. Some of these adverse actions result from routine matters of non-compliance, while others follow months of in-depth investigation.

7. Has the Department's new approach to risk management involved any temporary or permanent halt to investigations that were open as of January 20, 2017?

No.

8. Please provide an organizational chart, titles, and detailed descriptions of the job responsibilities for the senior executives leading FSA's oversight work, including Michael Dean, Charles Patterson, Julian Schmoke, and Chris Greene.

See Attachment A.

9. Please provide the number of full-time equivalent employee positions assigned to each of the functions headed by the senior executives listed above, disaggregated by employee hiring authority and listing any current or expected staff vacancies.

See Attachment B.

10. What is the number of filled and vacant spots disaggregated by the Enforcement unit's four staff groups: Investigations, Borrower Defense, Administrative Actions and Appeals, and Clery, and who are the senior managers for each of those staff groups?

See Attachment C.

11. Please provide a list of all contractors employed by FSA for any oversight, compliance, or risk management activity and the description and scope of work for each contract.

See Attachment D.

12. Who is FSA's Senior Fraud Advisor, and what is FSA's plan to implement the GAO Fraud Framework, as indicated in the OIG's FY 2018 Management Challenges report?

FSA's Senior Fraud Advisor is Linda Hall, a veteran member of the Senior Executive Service (SES) and career employee of the Department. FSA is working to implement the components of GAO's suggested framework for fraud risk management: organizational culture and structure supportive of fraud risk management, fraud risk assessments and development of a fraud risk profile, strategies for specific control activities to mitigate risk, and continuous evaluation of outcomes and adaptation of activities for improvement. All aspects of fraud risk management will be coordinated and aligned with FSA's ERM Unit.

13. How does FSA plan to respond to all the issues raised by the annual OIG Management Challenges report and GAO reports on oversight, and will this include incorporating such feedback into annual risk assessments?

OIG and GAO findings contribute to FSA's risk assessment evaluations, including risk mitigation activities and strategies. FSA continually reviews and updates its enterprise risk assessments and identifies and evaluates additional mitigation activities and strategies.

FSA is actively resolving the issues raised by the IG and GAO regarding oversight and works closely with these entities to develop and implement appropriate action plans to address identified concerns.

14. How does the Department plan to utilize complaints and allegations from students filed with the FSA Feedback System, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, Federal Trade Commission, accrediting agencies, and state authorizers in enforcement activities?

FSA's proactive work will continue to be informed by customer input—including complaints and allegations of suspicious activity through the FSA feedback system, available at StudentAid.gov/feedback—and supported by coordination with other stakeholders, including accrediting bodies, the Federal Trade Commission, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, and the U.S. Department of Justice.

Thank you for your letter. If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact the Office of Legislation and Congressional Affairs at 202-401-0020.

Sincerely,

James F. Manning

Attachment A

Please provide an organizational chart, titles, and detailed descriptions of the job responsibilities for the senior executives leading FSA's oversight work, including Michael Dean, Charles Patterson, Julian Schmoke, and Chris Greene.

Position descriptions for the individuals listed below are enclosed. These individuals work directly for the Chief Operating Officer and the Deputy Chief Operating Officer. Attachment B includes details about their teams.

Michael Dean, Chief Risk Officer

Charles Patterson, Senior Advisor, Executive Outreach

Julian Schmoke, Jr., Chief Enforcement Officer

Chris Greene, Chief Customer Experience Officer and Chief Communications Officer (Acting)

Risk Management Unit (Michael Dean):

Federal Student Aid's Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) Unit is responsible for providing best in business service for all internal review, audit resolution, risk assessment, and risk management strategy; portfolio risk management; and performance monitoring in high-risk issue areas. The ERM is divided into two main areas: the Internal Review Division and the Risk Analysis and Reporting Division. The Internal Review Division is responsible for helping to ensure that an effective internal control framework is in place across the enterprise; however, it does not have any responsibilities related to the implementation of enterprise risk management. The Risk Analysis and Reporting Division is responsible for developing an enterprise risk management strategy and implementing an enterprise risk management program at Federal Student Aid (FSA). Additionally, the ERM works to develop risk assessments and provide a more strategic view of future risks and was designed to better equip senior management to anticipate, analyze, and manage risks inherent in the federal student financial assistance programs.

Executive Outreach Function (Charles Patterson):

The Executive Outreach function was established and is responsible for the development and execution of outreach and engagement efforts with federal and state agencies, professional organizations, higher education executives and FSA stakeholders. Engagement efforts and communications will clarify FSA's compliance processes and enforcement actions.

Enforcement Unit (Julian Schmoke, Jr.):

FSA's Enforcement Unit is responsible for taking enforcement action against parties participating in Title IV, Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended (HEA) programs. The work is designed to protect students, borrowers, and taxpayers and to enforce compliance with laws and regulations governing student financial assistance programs administered by FSA.

Enforcement carries out its responsibilities through four subcomponents:

- Administrative Actions and Appeals Service Group
- Clery Group
- Investigations Group
- Borrower Defense Group

Customer Experience Unit (Chris Greene):

FSA's Customer Experience (CE) Unit is responsible for identifying, measuring, and reporting customer expectations and satisfaction with the federal financial aid services and products offered by FSA. The CE office is accountable for understanding the customers' perception of service over their entire customer lifecycle and identifying ways to improve customer satisfaction. The CE office serves as the "voice of the customer" and works as an advocate for issues facing customers.

Chief Customer Experience Officer

AD-0301-00

NO212N

INTRODUCTION

This position is located in the U.S. Department of Education, Federal Student Aid (FSA), Customer Experience office. FSA administers several financial assistance programs providing grants, loans and other forms of financial assistance to students pursuing postsecondary education.

FSA is the Federal government's first performance-based organization (PBO). THE PBO organization concept emphasizes flexibility and accountability. As a PBO, FSA concentrates on improving customer's satisfaction; providing high quality, cost-effective services; responding rapidly to technological changes; and providing complete, accurate and timely data, to ensure program integrity.

This is an excepted service AD Senior Manager position, pursuant to the 1998 Amendments to the Higher Education Act of 1965, established under authority of P.L. 105-244.

MAJOR DUTIES

Serves as the chief advisor to the Chief Operating Officer, on customer experience matters for FSA, to ensure FSA's activities are customer focused throughout the organization. There are three primary customer groups that the Chief Customer Experience Officer (CCEO) is accountable for:

- Prospective College Students (Traditional and Non-Traditional)
- Active College Students (Traditional and Non-Traditional)
- Borrowers (Former Students with loans in repayment).

Incumbent provides both short and long range strategic advice to the Chief Operating Officer and other senior managers on how to achieve customer satisfaction. S/he identifies, measures, and reports customer expectations and satisfaction with the federal financial aid services and products offered by Federal Student Aid pursuant to Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Exercises a comprehensive understanding of the customer's perception of service over the entire customer lifecycle, and identifies ways to improve customer satisfaction. As a member of the FSA Operating Committee, serves as a "voice of the customer," and works as an advocate for issues facing customers.

Expands customer listening, by engaging stakeholders to contribute and participate; applies quantitative and qualitative analyses of customer data to inform FSA's views of customers; and uses findings, to inform and influence business decisions, and to make positive changes to customer-facing processes.

Utilizes customer surveys, research and enterprise data analytics, and monitors school data, to drive action and inform decision-making.

Refines current outreach and engagement strategies through social media, webinars, in-person presentations, and publications.

Reviews and makes improvements to StudentAid.gov, to simplify and improve the customer experience; and implements methods to improve customer satisfaction.

Manages and leads the primary customer management function within FSA. The unit is charged with developing and deepening trust-based relationships with key customer groups. These relationships are designed to position FSA, to be proactive in identifying, analyzing, and addressing potential issues impacting customers. In addition, the unit provides advice and counsel, to key customer groups on various topics required for customers, to remain in "good standing" with the Department. The team works closely with all FSA business units, to ensure that customer needs and expectations are met.

Incumbent ensures effective and appropriate use of social media and digital communications with customers.

S/he continually reviews, improves and automates aid application products (e.g. Free Application for Federal Student Aid), to ensure materials are easy to use and student centric; and manages the contracts and annual lifecycle for FAFSA and related vendor products, including digital delivery and application services.

Gathers feedback, from the network, of Financial Aid Administrators (FAA) working at the 6200 schools eligible, for the Title IV funds (including public, private and proprietary Institutions). The FAA feedback system enables FSA, to gather insights on ways to improve its business processes, technology, and aid programs to better meet the needs of college students.

Initiates customer interactions designed, to improve institutional performance and student outcomes, at minority serving institutions (MSIs).

Develops intervention and prevention strategies, to minimize the number of non-compliant schools and borrowers in default.

Reviews and aligns, where appropriate, the Ombudsman and FSA Feedback system processes.

Develops, implements and revises as necessary a FSA consumer protection function, to enable students, to make better informed decisions regarding college.

Formulates FSA's outreach strategies; builds and manages the customer experience team; works with various stakeholders, to achieve customer awareness and aid application goals; assesses FSA's product mix and positioning, to ensure they meet the needs of students; and oversees customer contact points (e.g. call center, e-mail, mail, and websites) and the vendors associated with these activities.

Works closely with the other FSA business units, to ensure a coordinated and comprehensive approach, in all areas to focus on customer needs and ways to meet them, and to ensure that FSA's communications are customer focused Incumbent represents FSA and the Department, in meetings with other Federal agencies, customer groups, academic organizations and State and local organizations. Participates in cross-agency efforts, to improve students' financial well being; and represents ED and FSA on government-wide customer service groups and efforts.

MANAGERIAL AND TECHNICAL SKILLS REQUIRED

Possess expert knowledge, of customer experience programs and processes, to develop and implement enterprise wide customer experience activities, for a public sector organization, focusing on financial aid.

Knowledge of, and experience with all aspects of e-commerce technologies, consumer marketing, customer analytics, and customer feedback systems, and of customer segmentation methodologies.

Demonstrated knowledge, of project management practices and principles, in order to coordinate numerous simultaneous projects and activities.

Demonstrated knowledge, of the characteristics and needs, of customer groups, to develop programs, to address their concerns, and meet requirements.

Ability to effectively interact with and influence executive management levels, including FSA and ED senior leadership.

Ability to work closely and cooperatively with business unit heads across FSA and with senior officials, at the Department, to engage them in customer related issues, and to ensure a customer focused, student-centric approach across FSA, including FSA's communication strategies.

Possess excellent written and verbal communication skills sufficient, to summarize and communicate complex customer experience issues, relevant analyses, and programmatic options, to senior leadership.

LEVEL OF RESPONSIBILITY

The Customer Experience organization is divided into the following components, reporting to the CCEO:
